Introduction

This semester, for the first time, we worked on housing projects in Kyoto, Japan within the framework of an exchange between the Kyoto Institute of Technology and the Academy of Architecture, Mendrisio.

Students from each architecture school worked in pairs with students from the other, and spent the first four weeks of the semester in Kyoto and the remainder in Mendrisio.

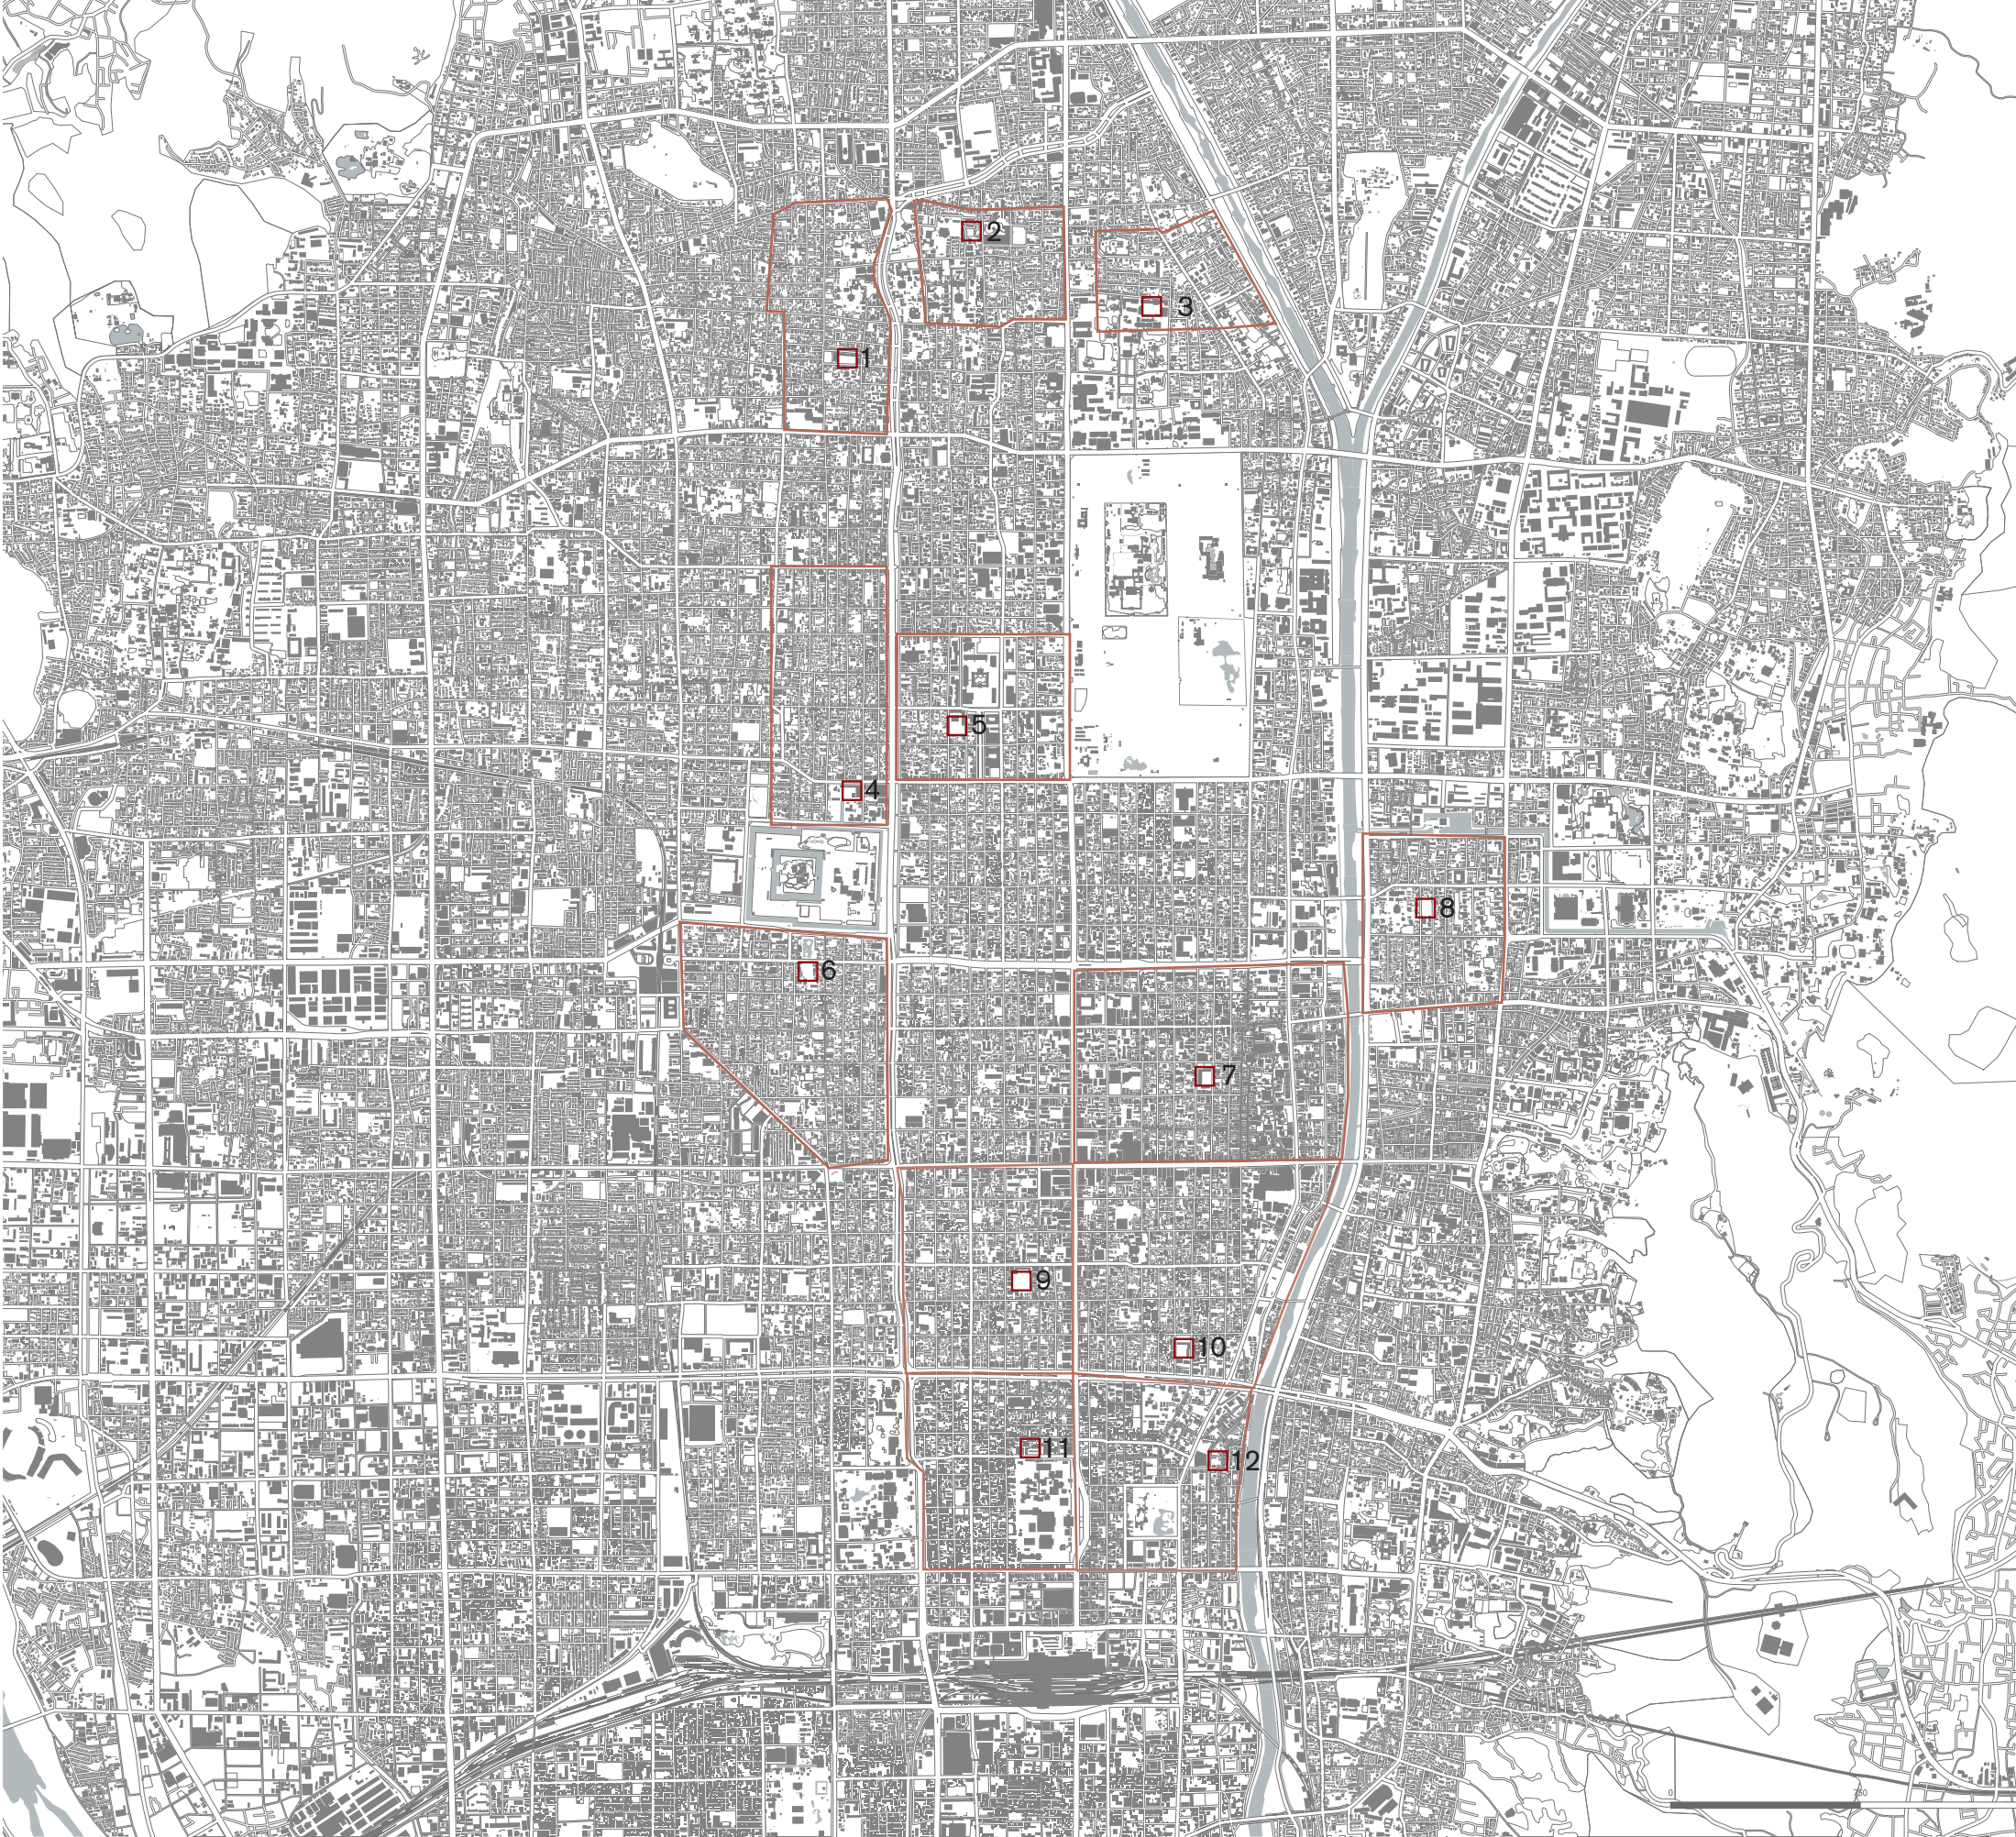

The focus of our work was housing, and we endeavoured to find solutions to the needs of contemporary Japanese society. Specifically, we selected 12 neighbourhoods to be studied in detail.

While in Japan, we visited exemplars of Japanese housing, and our work was supported by experts who offered insights into the issues we addressed.

Acknowledgements

I am very grateful to KYOTO Design Lab / Kyoto Institute of Technology, particularly to Kimura Hiroyuki and Erwin Viray who helped with the preparation of the semester, offered great support during our trip to Japan and attended the intermediate and final reviews.

I would also like to thank Alejandro Martinez, Takei Makoto and Shigenori Uoya for the inspiring lectures that helped us understand the issues we addressed during the semester. Daisuke Hattori and Sayako Hirakimoto offered constructive criticism at the final reviews: I thank them all warmly for their valuable insights.

As always, I am grateful to my assistants, Taro Sakurai and Cristina Roiz de la Parra Solano, for organizing the studio activities, supporting the students throughout the semester and for the lectures they offered, and to Marina Aldrovandi for editorial support.

Finally, I commend all the students who worked in the studio this semester: the beautiful work documented here is a testament to their enthusiasm and commitment.
